

Listen Up!

Your Mac and Your Music

Everybody has music lying around the house - on CDs, vinyl records, and tapes. The modern digital music player, as exemplified by Apple's iPod, allows anyone to carry entire music collections with them wherever they go. How do we move that music from our household media onto our computer in order to categorize it and organize it into playlists? Having done that how do we move it onto our iPods? Finally, what other tricks can our iPods play?
